Objectives

Objective of the product is to provide the investor with a specified entitlement according to predefined conditions. The product has a fixed lifetime and will be redeemed on the Redemption Date. The possibilities for the redemption of the product are as follows: The possibilities for the redemption of the product are as follows:

- If a Barrier Event has not occurred and
 - If the Final Fixing Level of the Underlying with the Worst Performance is at or below the respective Initial Fixing Level, the investor will receive a Cash Settlement in the Settlement Currency that equals the Issue Price multiplied by the difference between (a) 2 and (b) the Worst Performance. This means the Cash Settlement is calculated as follows: Issue Price × (200% - Worst Performance)
 - If the Final Fixing Level of the Underlying with the Worst Performance is above the respective Initial Fixing Level, the investor will receive a Cash Settlement in the Settlement Currency which equals the Issue Price multiplied by the Worst Performance.
- If a Barrier Event has occurred, the investor will receive a Cash Settlement in the Settlement Currency which equals the Issue Price multiplied by the Worst Performance.

The investor might incur a loss in case the Cash Settlement on the Redemption Date is below the purchase price of the product. The investor will benefit from a positive performance of the Underlyings as long as the Barrier Event has not occurred.

2. What are the risks and what could the investor get in return?

Risk Indicator

The summary risk indicator is a guide to the level of risk of this product compared to other products. It shows how likely it is that the product will lose money because of movements in the markets or because the Issuer is not able to pay the investor.

We have classified this product as 6 out of 7, which is the second-highest risk class.

This rates the potential losses from future performance at a high level, and poor market conditions are very likely to impact the capacity of the Issuer to pay the investor of the product.

The investor shall be aware of currency risk. The investor may receive payments in a different currency, so the final return that the investor will get depends on the exchange rate between the two currencies. This risk is not considered in the indicator shown above.

This product does not include any protection from future market performance so the investor could lose some or all of its investment.

If the Issuer is not able to redeem the investor what is owed, the investor could lose the entire investment.

The scenarios presented are an estimate of future performance based on evidence from the past on how the value of the product varies, and are not an exact indicator. What the investor gets back will vary depending on how the market performs and how long the investor keeps the investment/product.

The stress scenario shows what the investor might get back in extreme market circumstances, and it does not take into account the situation where we are not able to pay the investor.

The figures shown include all the costs of the product itself, but may not include all the costs that the investor pays to the advisor or distributor. The figures do not take into account the investor's personal tax situation, which may also affect how much the investor gets back.

3. What happens if the Issuer is unable to pay out?

The investor is exposed to the risk that the Issuer might be unable to fulfil its obligations in respect of the product e.g. in the event of insolvency (inability to pay / over-indebtedness) or administrative order. A total loss of the investor's capital invested is possible. The product is a debt instrument and as such is not covered by any deposit protection scheme.

4. What are the costs?

Cost over time

The Reduction in Yield (RIY) shows what impact the total costs the investor pays will have on the investment return the investor might get. The total costs take into account one-off, ongoing and incidental costs.

The amounts shown here are the cumulative costs of the product itself. They include potential early exit penalties. The figures assume the investor invests EUR 10,000. The figures are estimates and may change in the future.

The person selling to the investor or advising the investor about this product may charge other costs. If so, this person will provide the investor with information about these costs, and show the investor the impact that all costs will have on the investor's investment over time.
